

Teacher Experience Exchange

Empower your classroom

HP and Microsoft proudly announce Teacher Experience Exchange. We are committed to education. And with your help, we have built the website you want.

IMAGINE

- Teacher-generated lessons
- A website built by teachers, for teachers
- An online community sharing content
- Professional development tools at your fingertips

Nobody understands teachers' needs better than you—except, perhaps, other teachers. HP and Microsoft respect your knowledge and we value what you do everyday.

We've created an online community where you contribute your own content—lesson plans, videos, photos, projects—and talk about it with peers. Discuss technology integration and advancement in the classroom. Learn from and support others, grow professionally, and join a group that supports teachers and the advancement of education.

Teacher Experience Exchange website takes your lesson plans to the next level. It helps you provide the best learning experience for your students; share what you know; support other teachers in their missions; create a repository of content for teachers by teachers; and learn from others. You'll find lessons, classroom content, tutorials, course, technology tools and more.
